

August (8.1)

Stay low...avoid provoking the office animals

- Have you ever wandered through your office wondering exactly where some of the people came from?
- Some of your co-workers may seem like they're from another continent or planet.
- This month, we will slowly creep up on a few of the species that are commonly seen migrating throughout the great indoors.
- Be careful...these species may look relaxed and comfortable when left alone but are known to become quite agitated when provoked.
- It is important to observe and record the habits of these species as their unique postures could be causing the discomfort they can be heard describing at the office "watering hole".

Shortcut Tip Esc, to 'Exit' from applications and menus